OVERALL - BRONCOS by 11 ✓'s

Webb/LB McClain) here. The fact they have only given up a 14-13 ratio shows their quality of depth. BAL has our #1 ST's unit thanks to Jones work comb w/a great yr by Koch. Despite missing a year it can be argued that '12 was Manning's best ever. Working w/a new roster/coaches/hybrid scheme, his +26 ratio was 2nd only to 2004 which he bested in att, comp, comp % and yards. With Manning at the helm, Decker and Thomas became the 1st tandem of 1,000 yd rec's s/04. Stokely has been a reliable 3rd Dn option while Dreesen and Tamme have excelled working in similar styles at IND/HOU. Over the final 6 games which Moreno started DEN has the #11 rush off and as a team they outgained foes by 150 ypg (+2 TO's) which is an NFL best. Including the '07 Colts, this is the best/deepest D Manning has had. While labeled an OLB, Miller rushes on over 70% of his snaps and is one of the best all around LB's in the league. Many of DEN's 52 sks (#1) are the result of their top 5 secondary which has allowed 203 ypg (54%) w/an 11-8 ratio over the L8 games once they settled into Del Rio's system. They are the only defense to not give up a 300 yd passing game TY (PIT/NYJ) with only 3 games over 100 yds rushing. DEN also has our #5 spec teams unit w/top 10 coverage units and Colquitt's net avg is the 3rd best TY.

Baltimore lives and dies by the rush attack led by Ray Rice and they finished the regular season ranked #9 in that category. That causes a matchup problem here as the Broncos have the #2 overall defense and #3 against the rush while also causing havoc on opposing OLs as they lead the NFL in sacks. Flacco has not felt that type of pressure and now on the road with a short week and in altitude, the Ravens offense will struggle. Power Plays calls for almost a 2 td win and we agree.

The 49ers pulled an opening week upset beating GB 30-22 as a 5 pt AD. SF quickly shut down GB's attempt at a run game (45 yds, 3.2) and by forcing them to be one-dimensional they were able to bottle up the passing game. 107 of Rodgers 303 yds came midway thru the 4Q after GB was down 30-15. Six of GB's 1st 7 drives ended in punts. SF went 6-1-1 SU/4-4 ATS at home TY with a +105 ypg (#2) and +4 TO's mark for a 25-14 avg score. GB went 4-4 SU/ATS on the road for +15 ypg (+3 TO's) but a 25-24.5 avg score. Rodgers has logged 281 ypg (67%) w/a 22-3 ratio on the road TY however. Including playoffs, Green Bay is 18-7 ATS as a dog.

After a slow start Rodgers has dominated the passing game again finishing w/less than 10 int in 3 of the L4Y (11 in 2010). The only bad thing that can be said about the Packers off is that the run game is once again very limited. Part is due to Rodgers (8 100+ QBR's TY), part is due to design (often just an extra pass blk'r) and part is due to injury (Benson IR foot). Even though GB lacks a 1,000 yd receiver TY this is still a top 3 unit in depth/talent. GB's biggest weakness on offense is the OL which has had 4 diff OL combo's the final 7 gms. Despite being one of the most beat up def's GB's #11 rank is a sign of depth and the fact they've only played 1 team w/a top 10 off in the L10 gms (DET). Raji is the cornerstone of the DL, Matthews for LB's but GB is also quite deep in the secondary. The fact they allow 4.5 ypc is due to 2 strong qmbs by Peterson and inj's up front. They are better than their #11 pass def rankings (#4 def QBR) as they allow just 55% comp w/a 6.7 ypa (7th). GB has our #16 spec tms unit thanks to Randall Cobb on returns. Prior to Kaepernick SF avg'd 366 ypg/215 ypg pass/23.7 ppg. Since he took over it's 356 ypg/230 ypg pass/26.3 ppg but he is much more aggressive with the ball as SF uses more of the Pistol off. Gore has quietly logged his 2nd str year of 1,200 yds rush thanks to the best OL in the NFL TY giving up 1 sk every 16 pass att's w/Kaepernick vs 1 every 8.4 w/Smith. Crabtree has finally taken to being a #1 WR here and is the 1st WR w/1,000 yds rec s/'03 while Davis has admitted he's not as comfortable w/a new QB at the helm. Losing Manningham (knee) creates an unknown as it's a ? to how much gas Moss has left. SF's OL is one of 3 to start every game together TY (MIN/NYJ). SF's D ret'd all 11 str's from LY's #4 unit and they didn't miss a start until Justin Smith tore a triceps. He is the key cog in the system setting up the majority of Aldon Smith's 19.5 sks to a stop unit that all'd 91 ypg (3.6) rush w/him in the lineup. The 49ers also have the best LB unit in the NFL w/Aldon, Willis and Bowman locked up longterm. They own the #5 pass D and their 6.1 ypa is 2nd best. SF has our #10 ST's TY despite Akers struggles. When you think of these two legendary teams QB is the first position to come to mind. The Packers still have that tradition and now travel to face a young San Fran QB in his first playoff start. The 49ers "dominating defense" from LY is actually ranked #9 over their final 8 games while the Packers improved stop unit is actually ranked #13. With defenses close, we'll back a veteran QB who will clearly benefit from seeing the same team twice in a season against Kaepernick who hasn't had the luxury of facing this blitz-happy unit which is markedly better with the return of Woodson.
